BY HUGH WILSON. ABBEVILLE, S. C., WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 13, 1904. ESTABLISHED 1844

DEATH OF DR. MARSHALL.

At an Advanced Age the Patriarch Passes Away Peacefully.

Dr. Joseph Waldo W. Marshall died at his home in this city last Wednesday morning, January 6, 1904, in his eighty-third year.

Dr. Marshall was born near Little Mountain. Fifty years ago he moved to Abbeville. His first marriage was with Miss Jennie Smith, to whom were born two sons and two daughters. The older daughter, Miss Fannie Marshall, married Mr. Harry G. Pinckney of Charleston, and after her death he married the younger daughter, Miss Jennie Marshall, who now lives in the city of Anderson.

William Marshall, the elder son, is living in one of the Western States. Samuel Marshall, the younger brother, died in a distant home some fifteen years ago.

Dr. Marshall's second marriage was with Miss Fannie Calhoun, who survives. To them were born sons.

Mr. J. Calhoun Marshall, conductor on the Southern Railway, and living at Anderson.

Foster Marshall died in infancy. Waldo Marshall was one of the trains of the Seaboard Railway a few years ago, from which he fell, sustaining injuries from which he died.

The daughters are:

Miss Kate Marshall who survives. Miss Sallie Marshall married Mr. F. C. DuPre, and died a few years later. Miss Lizzie Marshall married Samuel C. Oason, a member of the Abbeville bar. He died, leaving her a widow.

Dr. Marshall was the last of his generation of a large family which has been for a hundred years a factor in all the activities.

His sisters were: Mrs. Kittie Williams of Greenville, and Mrs. James L. Orr of Anderson, and Mrs. Sprout of Rome, Ga.

His brothers were: J. Foster Marshall, who commanded the Abbeville company of Palmetto volunteers in the Mexican war, of 1847-8. It was from this company that Frederick W. Sellick was chosen flag-bearer, and as all the world knows, he was first to raise the American flag over the city of Mexico. To Sellick's memory his Captain, J. Foster Marshall, placed the monument, which was afterward broken by fire.

It is in honor of Frederick W. Sellick that Hon. Wyatt Aiken is now urging Congress to make an appropriation for a suitable monument.

Col. J. Foster Marshall was killed at the head of his regiment at the Second Battle of Manassas. His remains, together with the body of his wife, rest in the Episcopal churchyard at this place, as close to the sanctuary as the rules of the Church would permit. Great iron vases keep vigil over their graves.

Samuel Marshall, John H. Marshall, and George W. Marshall, brothers of Dr. Marshall, have long since gone to their reward.

Before the war, Dr. Marshall was rich in this world's goods. Owing many slaves and vast stretches of land in Abbeville County he was a factor in the business circles of that day.

Among other lands which he owned was the area now called the Promised Land. Under a law which had been enacted by the Radical Legislature, an officer was authorized to buy farming lands for the purpose of selling them again to freedmen. This land of Dr. Marshall, under authority of that law, was bought, cut into small tracts, and sold on credit to the highest bidder.

The corn and wheat mill on Cortland creek which Dr. Marshall owned in connection with this land was sold to Mr. James Evans and it was by him transferred to Mr. Cole who owns it today.

At one time Dr. Marshall owned the block of stores on the public square now occupied by R. Rosenberg & Co., the Farmers Bank, and C. W. Kendall.

Dr. Marshall built an imposing residence which crowned Magazine Hill. It was destroyed by fire in the summer of 1878. Upon that site was afterward built the home in which he died.

Because of an injured hand Dr. Marshall did not enter the army, but he served his people in another way honorably and nobly. Of his abundant riches, he gave to the needy, and from his cheerful heart went out the encouraging word to those who were passing under the rod, or whose life was overshadowed by distress.

At one time Dr. Marshall was a member of the Legislature from this county and was for a long time a director in the Columbia and Greenville Railroad.

When Dr. Marshall was a young man he was remarkably successful in business. But after the war, with a greatly reduced estate, he seemed to have lost the art of making money. The sagacity and good judgment which directed him in a normal condition of the country were unavailing when the times were out of joint. He had advanced too far in life to forget the old ways or to learn new methods.

After the war, with demoralized labor, he planted his lands in Georgia. The result was not satisfactory. He lost much of the money that he had saved from the losses by the war. Subsequently, he and his son, William Marshall, invested large sums in the city of St. Joseph, Missouri.

During the last years of his life he little else than to read and to practice medicine. Although he spent much of his time in reading, he was frequently seen upon our streets, and for all whom he met he had a pleasant word. While the frosts of many winters were upon his head, the sunshine of spring lighted up his heart.

While he was feeble for years, and while his heart-action was sluggish, to a degree that was alarming to his friends, yet he was always cheerful. He shrank not at the approach of the last great enemy. And to his friends he talked freely of his approaching end. He selected the spot where he wished to be buried.

Dr. Marshall loved his fellow man, but he was especially fond of young people. Along life's journey he cast light and pleasure, and to the struggling poor he often gave words of cheer and comfort.

In his intercourse with all men he gave evidence of the kindly heart within, and the exterior polish of a Chesterfield. No man in Abbeville County better exemplified the courteous and genial conduct of the kindly hearted gentleman than did Dr. Marshall.

Nearly all the kindred of his generation had passed away, and it seemed to him that he was scarcely in the land of his nativity or in the city of his education.

Dr. Marshall came to Abbeville many years ago, and nearly all the men of that day have joined the silent majority. Among those still with us are:

Hon. W. H. Parker, Mr. H. T. Tusten, Mr. J. Fraser Livingston, Col. J. T. Robertson, Mr. J. O. Smith, Capt. John G. Edwards.

Kindred and friends came from a distance to attend the funeral of Dr. Marshall, which was conducted in the Episcopal church, and neighbors were present to do him honor. The service was concluded at the grave in Long Cane cemetery.

Mrs. Jane Crawford, now 88 years of age, was one of the notable persons who came to do honor to the dead. None, however, more sincerely mourned the death of him whom she had known and respected all his life.

Her own brothers, and her own sisters, had long since left her, and of the acquaintances and friends of her childhood, Dr. Marshall lingered longer and was the last to take his departure. Of the friends of her childhood, not one now remains. She stands as the lonely sentinel far from the outposts of time, and so near to the River that she can almost hear the symphonies of the angelic hosts that live in the beautiful city and the home of our God.

The pomp and the splendor of the pageant, the presence of distinguished kindred and the coming of honored citizens from distant homes are all beautiful evidences of regard, but the devotion of that old woman who came on foot to pay a heart's tribute to the memory of the patriarch who, had just laid down life's burden, was not less touching or less to be regarded than the highest honors of earth. Loving hearts are more than coronets.

ANNUAL FESTIVITIES.

A Host of Young People from Far and Near, Entertained at the Home of Mr. S. S. Bates.

Monday night, Dec. 28, the "Annual Dance" was again held at the home of Mr. S. S. Bates. This occasion is celebrated only once a year at this charming country home, the time of celebration being Xmas week.

All the young people far and near look forward to the time when "old Santa" comes, for with him comes the "Annual Ball." The dance is held between fifty and sixty persons, the dancing room was decorated with ferns, mistletoe and palms.

Music was furnished by a band, and was continued until very late bedtime, or in other words, till early rising time. The number of guests was about fifty and sixty, some among this gay throng did not participate in the dance, but were agreeably entertained by the games and the social talk.

Among the prevailing games, Supper was served at 11 o'clock. The table resembled in every feature a wedding table, the decorations being only white and green. The edges of the table-linen were embroidered with ferns and a delicate little bouquet of roses was placed at each place. The charming effect of the table is indescribable, and the varieties of dainty temptations were too numerous to mention.

Among the attendants were a lady and gentleman from Tugal, Ga., another lady and gentleman from Anderson, a bride and groom, relatives of the bride, and a party from their tour stopped over for the Ball. It was heartily enjoyed by all.

Many a name was changing. Before another ball. Some of the guests of this ball will more likely cross the uncertain sea of matrimony ere another is given at this home.

DONALDS DOTS.

As Related by the Young Correspondent—Visitors, Coming and Going.

Donalds, Jan. 11, 1904.

Our town has had a lively appearance this week for the high price of seed and the horse drovers have brought a large number of seed.

Seed has been bringing thirty two cents here for several days and the town has been full of wagons and teams.

Hunter and McKee and Denson and Ron have all been here for several days with fine colts and horses and they likewise have drawn people here.

The roads in and around this town are in the best condition they have been in for a long time and much credit should be given to the County officials and especially Mr. L. A. Shannon, County Commissioner.

The ladies of the church have been at work several days fixing up the parsonage for the coming year. The people are delighted at the idea of having him and extend him a hearty welcome.

Mr. Oscar Dodson, of this place, was married on last Sunday at the home of the bride in Cokesbury to Miss Kild Graham.

Miss Lois Humphrey has entered Erskine College. Our folks are very glad that the old school and the new one are so near each other.

Mr. W. Barmore May, of Greenwood, visited relatives here last week. H. C. B.

KILLED.

There is not an ache or pain that can be reached externally that cannot be "Killed" in a few minutes by the use of ELLIOT'S Rubbed Oil Liniment. Rub it on the affected part and the pain will soon disappear. Full 1/2 pint bottle, 25 cents. C. A. Milford.

Cured Lumbago.

A. B. Canham, Chicago, writes March 4, 1903: "Having been troubled with lumbago for several years, I tried many remedies, but after another; then different ointments and liniments, gave it up altogether. So I tried ELLIOT'S Rubbed Oil Liniment, which gave me almost instant relief. I can cheerfully recommend it, and will add my name to your list of former sufferers." 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by C. A. Milford.

A man's idea of an eccentric woman is one who goes to the opera to hear the music.

If you want your fellow to look cute and attractive take him to Haddon's and sit him in a Mrs. Jane Hopkins' suit. 5 pieces, 35-inch skirt and black and colors. Will be sold cheap for cash at Haddon's.

EAST END.

What "M" Seen and Hears on His Rounds in Country and in Town. Abbeville, S. C., Jan. 5, 1904.

PENCIL POINTS ON ROUTE NO. 3.

Mr. J. J. Edwards and daughter, Miss Lillie returned last Saturday from a pleasant visit to Mrs. Ables, a sister of Mr. Edwards living near Abbeville.

Major Arthur Parker, one of the wide awake and prosperous farmers of the Flat-woods was in the city last week visiting and being nicely baled and put up on his farm. Major Parker is up-to-date and has many of the new farm implements that make farm life easy and profitable.

Gilliam Brothers have purchased the Sam Reed plantation, having been in the Flat-woods with relations at Lebanon left last Saturday for their home in the South.

Mr. R. P. McNeill is at home for a month's vacation, and while thus enjoying himself receives half pay from his employers.

Mr. A. J. Woodruff has been appointed to his room for the past week, but is a little better at this writing.

Mr. Eugene Link is out of business and at home for the present.

Mrs. Lizzie Ables spent the past week with her sister, Mrs. S. S. Bates.

Mr. Edwin Parker has been doing some good work the past week, putting the Abbeville and Mount Carmel telephone line in good shape. We congratulate the company; as the line has been lying around and hanging in the public road for some time, being in the way of pedestrians and frightening horses.

The line is now all right with new poles and tight wires. The school for Sharon's doubling school has a handsome library case, containing 100 volumes for the benefit of the school. This is a good example of the school which will prove of great benefit to the scholars.

Mrs. J. J. Link who has been ill is now recovering. Mr. Link was sick about a week, but is all right again.

BIRTH—At Sharon, January 7th, to Mrs. A. K. Barker, a daughter.

Mrs. R. O. Edwards of Sharon spent last Monday with her father and family, Mr. W. R. McNeill of Lebanon.

The progressive farmers along route No. 3 are turning up the soil with big two horse plows. This is good work and will reap them next summer and in harvest time. Ground thus prepared holds the winter rains and keeps them in.

The rain Sunday night was much needed on the grain crops, which owing to the severe frost and a hard wind, were in a sorry state. Wheat looking fairly well.

There is not much cotton on route No. 3, the ground being so hard and the market. There are a few bales here and there waiting for higher figures.

Mrs. Mary Carter has been quite sick for the past few days, but is better at this writing.

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY.

Among the relations from a distance, who attended the funeral of Dr. Marshall were: Dr. Orr, Mrs. Jennie Pinckney and daughter, Miss Fannie, of Anderson, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Marshall of Columbia. A Miss Kate, his eldest daughter who was absent, returned for the last rites.

Mr. Robt. Hill is the proprietor at the S. A. L. shops. Mr. Denny Miller taking his place as day operator at the S. A. L. depot.

MARRIAGE BELLS ARE RINGING.

Invitations are out announcing the marriage of Miss Ellen Shepard and Mr. E. R. Thompson on Wednesday, January 14th, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at the home of Mr. Shepard.

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson of Warrenton, announcing the marriage of their daughter, Miss G. Wilson to Mr. Michael C. Beaufort on Thursday afternoon, January 14th at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at the home of Mr. Wilson.

The infant son of Mr. William Hammond of this city died at Woodruff last Sunday and was buried at the cemetery.

Mr. F. B. Brogdon of the Seaboard, spent Sunday in the city.

Mr. E. M. Lee, yesterday for Spartanburg, where he is engaged in the mercantile business. Mrs. Lee is now with her mother and will leave later.

The "Fort Teatle" contest closed last night and many are now waiting with intense anxiety to see the figures that will give the capital prize. Of course every good guesser expects to get something.

Mrs. Kelly Bowie of Elberton was expected in the city yesterday on a visit to her sister Mrs. G. H. Moore.

The grand play of the season "Romeo and Juliet" is being given at the Grand Opera House. This is the finest love drama ever written and will therefore be the play of the season.

Mrs. D. H. Wilder of Savannah is now in the city spending a while with relatives after a tour of the South.

Mr. Wilder has a good position and where they will make their future home. Mrs. Wilder has many friends here and on route No. 3.

LOWNESSVILLE.

Beautiful Wedding Ceremony—Numerous and Valuable Presents—Local and Personal News.

Last week the writer sent no report from this town, but it was the week before last was more fruitful of incomes, he will go back and take them up and present them in this report.

Miss Annie Laurie Power of Augusta, Ga. ended a two week's stay at her home, and returned to her home yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. B. McGrudder of Anderson were guests of Maj. F. W. R. Nance Tuesday in this town.

Miss Frances Morrah of Mt. Carmel spent the night in our town the week before last.

Mr. J. J. Link, who has been ill, is now recovering. Mr. Link was sick about a week, but is all right again.

ROLLING A HIGHWAY.

Some Points About Road Rollers and Their Use.

Every road is made smoother and harder by rolling, and dirt roads are no exception to this rule, says Isaac B. Potter. We have all noticed that the hardest and smoothest parts of a country road are the narrow strips which mark the passage of the wagon wheels that have gone over it, and these parts have become hard and smooth because the wheels have acted as rollers. But a wagon wheel is not always a very satisfactory roller, for the reason that the wheel tires are too narrow, and when the road is wet and soft the narrow wheels sink into the surface and form ruts and cut and mix and mangle the dirt out of all reason and destroy the good qualities of the roadway. If all the wagons used on country roads could be provided with tires four inches wide, they would roll the surface more smoothly and more quickly, and it would be in fairly good condition for nearly the whole year round.

A good horse roller will serve much to cure this difficulty, and such a roller can be bought for from $50 to $100 per ton. A roller weighing about five tons is about the proper thing. Steam rollers are becoming more generally used from year to year in our cities and towns, and there are many places where they can be used to advantage in consolidating the earth roads of the suburbs. They are generally more effective in their work and if kept busy are vastly cheaper to operate. They weigh from seven or eight tons upward, the ten and twelve ton sizes being perhaps the most popular.

Rolling should follow closely upon the work of the road grader or scraper so as to consolidate all the loose earth which the action of the grader has laid in the line of the roadway. The roller should pass many times over the softer portions of the road, and where the road is very dry and not inclined to pack it may be slightly moistened to hasten the action of the roller. The rolling should begin at the sides of the road and work gradually toward the center—that is, the roller should be passed from end to end along the side of the road, and then the second passage of the roller should slightly lap the first until the center of the road is reached.

FAVOR OILED ROADS.

The Use of Petroleum on Highways to Lay the Dust.

The use of oil on highways is steadily increasing in favor. In Moline, Ill., oil has been tried in place of water as a remedy for dust, and the results have been satisfactory. Bourbon, Ind., is considering the idea of sprinkling the streets with oil. The dust problem there is a very serious one during the summer months, for there are no gravel beds from which to construct roads.

The towns of California, which have been doing more in this line than those of any other state, are testifying to the great benefits derived from oil on the highways, by the continued use they are making of this means of laying the road, says the New York Tribune. The board of supervisors of Sacramento are greatly in favor of oiled roads. Three hundred or 350 barrels of oil a mile are at times necessary for the permanent packing of a sand road, but in many cases only 150 barrels need be used.

The roads of California are in most cases of sand, and the great benefits derived from the consolidating of this sand with the oil is continually testified to by those in charge of the highways. Not only is the oil a better dust layer and a more permanent one, but it is also more economical than water, inasmuch as the roads need to be oiled but once or twice a year, while sprinkling with water must be done every little while.

Using Straw to Improve Roads.

The farmers of Walla Walla county, Wash., are trying the experiment of laying their roads with straw to improve them, says the New York Tribune. Every fall the highways become deep with dust, making traveling hard on man and beast. Heavy rains meant mud, and the dust could not be removed without destroying the roadway. It then occurred to an enterprising individual that if all of the farmers would contribute straw and all hands assist in laying it on the roads most traveled there would be a great change for the better. The experiment was a decided success. The farmers turned out in force, plenty of straw was offered, ready hands laid it to the depth of a foot or more on the main thoroughfares of the county, and traveling became easy. Three hundred miles of roads will be covered with straw this fall.

Good Roads in Michigan.

Last year several counties in the state of Michigan expended over $600,000 on road improvements, and this year more than that amount will be expended.

Mails Close.

A Prisoner in Her Own House.

Mrs. W. H. Layne, of 1001 Agnes Ave., Kansas City, Mo. has for several years been troubled with severe headaches and at times a hard cough, which she says, "Would keep me in doors for days. I was prescribed by physicians with no noticeable result. A friend gave me part of a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy with instructions to closely follow the directions and I wish to state that after the first day I could notice a decided change for the better, and at this time after using it for two weeks, have no hesitation in saying I realize that I am entirely cured. This remedy is for sale by C. A. Milford, Abbeville, H. M. Young, Dne West.

A man who is thrown upon his own resources is apt to make an occasional raid upon the resources of others.

Impure Digestion.

Means less nutrition and in consequence less vitality. When the liver fails to secrete bile, the blood becomes loaded with bilious properties, the digestion becomes impaired and the bowels constipated. Bile is the body's great cleanser. It cleanses the liver and kidneys, strengthens the appetite, clears and improves the complexion, infuses new life and vigor to the whole system. 50 cents a bottle. Sold by C. A. Milford.

It would be an easy matter for all men to face the world if it wasn't for their creditors.

Mr. Wm. S. Crane, of California, Md., suffered years from indigestion, flatulency, bago. He was finally advised to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which he did and it cured him. For sale by C. A. Milford, Abbeville, H. M. Young, Dne West.

NOTICE OF REGISTRATION

The books for the registration of all legally qualified voters, and for the issuing of transfers, etc., will be open at the office of Supervisors of Registration in the Court House, between the hours of 9 o'clock a. m. and 5 o'clock p. m. on the first Monday of each month, and kept open for three successive days in each month until thirty days before the next general election.

Any person whose qualifications as an elector will be completed after the closing of the Registration Books but before the next election shall have the right to apply for and secure a registration certificate at any time within sixty days immediately preceding the closing of the Registration Books upon an application under oath to the facts entitling him to such registration.

The registration of voters must be by polling precincts. There must be a Book of Registration for each polling precinct, that is for each township, or parish, or city, or town of less than five thousand inhabitants, or ward of cities of more than five thousand inhabitants. Each elector must vote in the polling precinct in which he resides. If there is more than one voting place in the polling precinct, the elector may vote at any voting place designated on the registration certificate. The Boards must designate in the registration certificate the voting place in the polling precinct in which the elector is to vote. If there is more than one voting place in the polling precincts, the Boards shall designate on the certificate the voting place selected by the elector.
